Cumbria Way

The Cumbria Way is a captivating journey through one of England's most celebrated landscapes. Connecting the coastal town of Ulverston with the historic city of Carlisle, the 73 mile route showcases the beauty of the Lake District with a perfect blend of tranquil valleys, shimmering lakes, and majestic fells. Following a predominantly low-level route on well-maintained paths, the trail meanders through the lush scenery of Coniston, Langdale, and Borrowdale, with occasional climbs revealing breathtaking views of this cherished region.

Starting in the characterful market town of Ulverston, the trail weaves through pleasant countryside, gradually reaching the peaceful shores of Coniston Water, where the spirit of Arthur Ransome's Swallows and Amazons still lingers. From here, the path continues towards the dramatic peaks of the Langdale Valley. Every step resonates with the area's rich history and cultural heritage, passing through charming hamlets, ancient woodlands, and rolling farmland that reflect centuries of rural life. The trail also reveals traces of Cumbria's industrial past, with remnants of slate quarries and copper mines nestled amongst the fells.

Adding to its charm, the route's great attraction lies in its contrasts. Peaceful moments beside Derwentwater give way to the vibrant bustle of Keswick, while the solitude of Back o' Skiddaw and Caldbeck eventually leads to Carlisle's lively streets and historic castle.

One of the country's easier long-distance paths, the Cumbria Way is ideal for walkers of varying abilities, and whether drawn by its natural beauty, inspired by its industrial heritage, or simply seeking the joy of a multi-day adventure, this delightful route promises a truly memorable experience.

Essential Info

Length	3 - 9 nights
Full Route Length	70 miles / 112 km
Shortest Break Length	28 miles / 45 km

Grade

Moderate to Challenging

For the most part the Cumbria Way uses well defined and maintained paths and tracks. Please bear in mind that the climb over Stake Pass, and the eastern route behind Skiddaw, pass through relatively high and remote mountain terrain, where the paths are rougher. Although some of the route is waymarked, these sections are not, therefore the ability to navigate is essential.

Terrain: Most of the walk follows valleys and lakeshores, but the climb over Stake Pass and the eastern route behind Skiddaw pass through relatively high and remote mountain terrain, where the paths are rougher.

What's it like underfoot? On the whole the paths are well defined and maintained, but at times it can be rough underfoot with some muddy paths, so good footwear is essential. The western route around Skiddaw to Caldbeck can be boggy.

How much up & down? Most days are rolling with gentle ascent and descents. The climb of Stake Pass is about 300m, on a well maintained path. Between Keswick and Caldbeck the western route has a climb of about 300m, again on good, but sometimes boggy paths. The eastern route has a further 300m climb taking you up to 658m on High Pike, on less well defined paths.

Signposting: Sporadic. You will need to use your guidebook and map.

Navigation: Pretty straightforward on the lowland sections, but you may encounter hill fog or low cloud on Stake Pass and between Keswick and Caldbeck, therefore the ability to navigate is essential.

Weather: You may be lucky enough to encounter warm, dry weather over the whole route and enjoy dry paths and tremendous views, but you must be prepared because the weather can change quickly. Good clothing and waterproofs are essential.

Route

Ulverston to Coniston

The route starts at Ulverston, a market town on the southern edge of the Lake District. It then passes through rolling farmland north of Ulverston before reaching open bracken covered moorland and foothills around Blawith. It then descends to the lakeshore of Coniston Water which it follows to the village of Coniston.

Coniston to Langdale

The route continues on green lanes and wooded paths to Tarn Hows, one of the celebrated features of the Lakes. More woods and moorland lead to the Lakeland village of Elterwater, before the path enters the Langdale Valley.

Overshadowed by the dramatic high crags of the Langdale Pikes and Bowfell, this is perhaps the most famous place in the Lakes.

Langdale to Keswick

A steep climb up Stake Pass at the head of Langdale leads down to the long and remote valley of Langstrath, punctuated through its length by deep pools and waterfalls. The route continues through the densely wooded Borrowdale Valley, before passing over the slopes of Cat Bells, above Derwentwater and on to Keswick, a bustling tourist town and the hub of the Northern Lake District.

Keswick to Carlisle

Paths meander through rougher, open moorland and mountain sides leading onwards from Keswick and over the slopes of Skiddaw before descending to the village of Caldbeck at the foot of the northern Fells.

The final day is a contrast to all that has gone before – gentler, rolling countryside takes over as the path follows the meandering River Caldew downstream to Dalston and on to the historic border city of Carlisle, and the end of the trail.

Please note that due to a major road project, the Carlisle Southern Link Road, our Cumbria Way holidays will stop at Dalston throughout 2025.
